My architectural studies gave me a strong creative, design driven background which allowed me to explore the artistic and philosophical approach to architecture. The subsequent experiences within practices have reinforced this whilst also allowing me to develop a technical and grounded approach to architecture that I have gained by running projects through all RIBA stages. I am continuing this professional development by observing the ever changing architectural world, be that in terms of materials and building technologies or new regulations, and considering how architecture can be utilised to try and implement a positive change in society.

On a personal level, I feel that I have good time management and problem solving skills and I am reliable, self motivated, and keen to advance within my profession. In my spare time I enjoy a variety of pastimes, including reading, travelling, playing computer games and board games, watching sports, photography, cooking, and socialising with friends.

EXPERIENCE OF WORK

Senior Architect

Mitchell Eley Gould
Dec 2022 to Now

I have been managing projects across the commercial, residential, and educational sectors with a project value of up to £5 million, utilising a team of architects and architectural assistants to achieve this. While undertaking this, I have worked to further the office processes as well as the specification and usage of software.

Associate Architect

Fowler Architecture and Planning Ltd.
Aug 2021 to Dec 2022

I managed a team of architects, helping to organise workload and monitor outputs. I also used my time at the practice to assist with introducing a project management system, making decisions on marketing strategies, and putting together bids for prospective projects.

Architect

Fowler Architecture and Planning Ltd.
Aug 2015 to Aug 2021

I oversaw a wide range of projects within the high-end residential and commercial sectors. These included the conversion, renovation and extension of agricultural, domestic and commercial premises, both listed and unlisted. My responsibilities while working in this (and all subsequent roles) have covered all of the RIBA stages including acting as contract administrator. I also managed a technical assistant to ensure quality of work and that deadlines are met.

Architectural Assistant

Eric Cole Ltd.
Aug 2014 to Aug 2015

I completed a range of tasks including surveys, preparing planning applications, producing working drawings, and developing visualisations for clients. I had direct communications with clients, contractors, and planning officers throughout.
